CONFORT DESIGN JOINS THE PROFAB FAMILY

Saint-Apollinaire [November 4, 2025] — ProFab is proud to announce the official integration of Confort Design, a company recognized for its expertise in micro-home design and its innovative approach to compact living. This merger marks an important milestone in ProFab's ongoing growth and innovation strategy as the company continues its mission to offer complete housing solutions tailored to every lifestyle.

Through this integration, ProFab strengthens its leadership in modular home construction and now offers a complete collection of Confort Design micro-homes. Confort Design's Scandinavian-style unimodular homes and expertly crafted modular houses are also joining ProFab's collections, further enriching a residential offering known for its refined design and superior build quality.

"This integration represents much more than a simple change of banner," said Sébastien Lachapelle, Vice President of Revenue and Marketing at ProFab. "It reflects our commitment to uniting our strengths and leveraging the expertise of our brands, such as Confort Design, to simplify the customer experience and expand our product offering in the marketplace."

By joining forces, ProFab and Confort Design aim to:

- Offer a more diverse and evolving range of models to meet the housing needs of a wider audience;
- Enhance the customer experience through a more centralized and comprehensive online platform;
- Strengthen brand awareness and cohesion by bringing together two complementary areas of expertise driven by the same passion for housing.

The contacts, operations, and customer service of Confort Design are being maintained and progressively integrated into ProFab's organizational structure to ensure a smooth transition and seamless continuity of service.

The new Confort Design micro-home collection, along with upcoming developments related to this integration, can now be explored online. For more details, visit our article.
